“She Misses Being Mrs.” tells the story of a military widow longing for her fallen husband,” shares Calloway. “It’s releasing ahead of Memorial Day as a tribute to military families and their loved ones who’ve made the ultimate sacrifice. I hope the song is relatable and helps all listeners who’ve experienced deep loss by acknowledging their pain in simple moments when they feel alone in their grief. We want them to know our thoughts and prayers are with them.”

Calloway’s latest release follows the momentum of his previous single, “The Ballad Of Righteous And Wrong,” which premiered exclusively with Cowboys & Indians. Co-written by Trey Calloway, Greg Wilson, and Hal O’Dell, and produced by Grady Saxman, the track blends modern grit with the timeless storytelling style of classics like “Pancho & Lefty,” “Wreck of the Edmund Fitzgerald,” and “El Paso.” With a cinematic quality fit for a Taylor Sheridan drama, the song dives deep into the tension between justice and morality, pulling listeners into a vivid, morally complex world.

His debut album, Wanted Man, which continues to gain momentum includes nine tracks and blends the traditional sounds of the '90s with a modern edge. The final track, “That Was Us,” premiered by The Music Universe, earned a spot on Spotify’s All New Country editorial playlist, marking his second editorial placement from the album.

Calloway is currently in the studio working on new music, with more releases coming soon!

“She Misses Being Mrs.”
(Lyrics)

They met in high school
They fell in love
They said I do
Drove away in his truck
He always dreamed of being a soldier
Said when he got back
They’d spend days growing older
His second tour
They came under fire
Not every hero comes home

Chorus:

Now she misses his heart
His tender touch
The warmth of his arms
Wrapping her up
The memory of every smile
And a thousand goodnight kisses
But most of all she just misses
Being Mrs.
